

Earnings Review: Singapore Telecommunications Ltd (“SingTel”)

Recommendation

- 3QFY2019 results look lackluster, with core segments and associates showing declines. Reported EBITDA fell 11% y/y to SGD1.19bn (even without impact from NBN migrations, reported EBITDA would have fallen 2.5% y/y). The outlook continues to look murky with FY2019 outlook shaded down and SingTel is expected to record a decline in EBITDA.
- SingTel faces competition not just in its home markets of Singapore and Australia but also regionally. Its associates similarly recorded significantly lower pre-tax profits (-35% y/y to SGD342mn).
- Overall, credit metrics have somewhat weakened with the y/y fall in EBITDA and rise in net debt though this still falls within our Positive (2) Issuer Profile rating. We prefer to Underweight the STSP curve given its tight spreads and deteriorating credit profile and are recommending a switch into WHEELK 4.5% '21s (which we similarly rate at Positive (2) Issuer Profile). Investors looking for higher yields can consider SIASP 3.16% '23s and STHSP 3.08% '22s. We hold both Singapore Airlines Ltd and StarHub Ltd's issuer profiles at Neutral (3).

Key Considerations

- Lacklustre results with decline in core segments, with outlook continuing to look murky: SingTel reported 3QFY2019 results for the quarter ending 31 Dec 2018. Overall, results are lacklustre despite stability of the topline (+1% y/y to SGD4.63bn). Reported EBITDA plunged 11% y/y to SGD1.19bn, with declines in the core segments of Group Consumer (-10.8% y/y to SGD795mn) and Group Enterprise (-9.0% y/y to SGD428mn) while Group Digital Life remained a small negative contributor (-SGD16mn). That said, without the National Broadband Network (“NBN”) migration revenue in Australia and dispute settlement which are one-offs, reported EBITDA would have declined just 2.5% y/y. Accordingly, SingTel has shaded down its guidance for FY2019, with EBITDA forecasted to decline by low single digit (previously in 2QFY2019, SingTel forecasted EBITDA to be stable for the full financial year).
- Group Consumer segment struggles as consumers use more and pay less, with no respite to the Mobile segment: Reported EBITDA for the segment is down 10.8% y/y to SGD795mn, with declines in Singapore (-3.2% y/y to SGD194mn) and Australia (-8.3% y/y to AUD615mn). For Australia, even without NBN migration revenues, EBITDA would still have fallen by 3.6% y/y to AUD571mn. Looking ahead, the headwinds still persist with SingTel forecasting Singapore Mobile Service revenue to decline by mid-to-single digit and Australia Mobile Service revenue to be stable (a small growth was previously expected in 2QFY2019). The race to the bottom with cheaper price plans and more data is the new norm, with TPG offering free mobile service as a trial while rival StarHub has unveiled aggressive plans offering 50GB for SGD20/mth as an add-on.
  - In Singapore, this is due partly to declines in mobile service revenue (-

4.2% y/y to SGD261mn) with ARPU falling to SGD43/mth (3QFY2018: SGD49/mth) despite data usage increasing to 4.5GB (3QFY2018: 3.7GB). Churn rates which have remained low at 0.9%/mth (3QFY2018: 1.1%/mth) with a stable postpaid market share of 47.6% (3QFY2018: 47.7%). However, we infer that this is at the expense of more aggressive promotions and lower prices in a bid to fend off competition. We note that rivals (e.g. StarHub Ltd, M1 Ltd) have also seen ARPU declining despite increased data usage. Meanwhile, Pay TV (-5.0% y/y to SGD49mn) and Fixed voice (-10.4% y/y to SGD29mn) continued to decline.

- ii) In Australia, trends are similar with mobile service revenue lower by 3.5% y/y to AUD897mn, impacted by lower ARPU (declined by ~7% to AUD41/mth) due to increased SIM-only plans and data price competition. Meanwhile, Voice, Broadband and Pay TV collectively saw revenue decline by 13.0% y/y to AUD182mn.
- Enterprise segment is no longer a reliable buffer against slowdown in mobile: Despite revenue growth in ICT (+8.7% y/y to SGD771mn) which brought about stability in Group Enterprise's topline, Group Enterprise reported EBITDA fell in 3QFY2019 as the legacy services (e.g. Mobile, data, internet, voice) declined while ICT has a lower margin. Changing the tone from the past, SingTel has cited price competition as a reason for EBITDA decline – meanwhile, we note that rival StarHub Ltd's Enterprise services revenue has grown 12.0% y/y to SGD146.1mn. In 3QFY2019, SingTel downgraded the forecast for ICT revenue growth to low single digit (from 2QFY2019's forecast of mid-to-single digit growth).
  - Significant drag from regional associates: Associates pre-tax earnings were down 35% y/y to SGD342mn, mainly due to lower contribution from Telkomsel (-7.4% y/y to SGD305mn) and Airtel (which delivered a negative pre-tax earnings of SGD129mn) due to intense competition. SingTel guides that the dividends from regional associates will decline to ~SGD1.4bn (FY2018 actuals: SGD1.5bn). That said, associates remain a key part of SingTel, with SingTel's share of stakes in the listed regional associates (Airtel, AIS, Intouch, Globe) worth SGD19.1bn as of 31 Dec 2018 (SingTel's market cap: SGD50.5bn) and make up 38.8% of SingTel's SGD972.6bn pre-tax profits.
  - Slightly weaker but credit metrics remain strong: The weaker results y/y has impacted reported net gearing, which rose to 25.2% (3QFY2018: 22.5%) and net debt/(EBITDA + share of associates pre-tax profits) which rose to 1.58x (3QFY2018: 1.1x). Reported free cash flow has also declined 51.3% y/y to SGD387mn. That said, credit metrics are still within our Positive (2) Issuer Profile which we are maintaining though we will be cautious if debt levels continue to rise.
