

Highlights

Global	Geopolitics and economic data may dominate market action today. The WSJ reported that US Special Counsel Mueller had impanelled a grand jury in the Russia probe weighed on the USD and the S&amp;P500 while UST bonds gained. Market players await the key nonfarm payrolls (NFP) and unemployment report later tonight, with consensus eyeing +180k (previously +222k) and 4.3% (-0.1% points) respectively. Meanwhile, the BOE kept its policy settings static as widely expected by a 6-2 vote (previously 6-3 vote) and trimmed growth forecasts to 1.7% for 2017 (previously 1.9%) and 1.6% in 2018 (previously 1.7%) whilst the 2019 forecast was unchanged at 1.8%. BOE governor Carney warned that “the assumption of a smooth transition to a new economic relationship with the EU will be tested”, suggesting a downside risk to the outlook. Gilts consequently rallied and the GBP slipped as hawks appeared more subdued for now. Note the Institute of Directors had suggested PM May to delay Brexit until a full trade deal has been brokered. Asian bourses may trade sideways today, awaiting RBA’s monetary policy statement this morning, followed by US NFP cues tonight. Today’s economic data calendar also comprises of Australia’s retail sales, Malaysia’s June trade data, German factory orders and Canada’s unemployment data.
US	US’ non-manufacturing ISM surprised by falling 3.5 points to 53.9 in July, the weakest since August 2016, dragged down by new orders and employment gauges, which fell to 55.1 and 53.6 from 60.5 and 55.8 respectively, and pointed to a potential 3Q softening. Initial jobless claims fell 5k to 240k, with the 4-week average at 241.75k.
SG	The Nikkei Singapore PMI improved from 50.7 in June to 51.3 in July, suggesting that the services momentum is also picking up. The output gauge rose from 52 in June to 52.7.
ID	The government is trying to boost realization of investment pledges. According to a Bloomberg report, only 27% of foreign investment pledges are realized due to permit, land acquisition and other issues.
Commodities	Overall gold demand had fallen in the first half of 2017, according to the World Gold Council. Specifically, 1H17 demand fell by 14%, led by lower ETF inflows and central bank net purchases, although gains in bar &amp; coin investment, jewellery demand and technology demand limited the fall. Elsewhere, WTI futures soared to as high as $49.96/bbl on intraday trading yesterday before trending lower at the closing hour likely on profit-taking. In Asia, note that crude palm oil futures fell for its fourth consecutive trading day, with last night’s closing at MYR2,604/MT. We continue to look for CPO to trend lower into the year as chance for weather extremities fades amid ample supplies in 2017.

Major Markets

- US: Equities ended mixed on Thursday, with the Dow marginally higher, but the S&P 500 and Nasdaq Composite slipping 0.22% and 0.35% respectively. Equities were pressured towards the end of the session by political news that Mueller is stepping up the Russian probe. Energy and materials stocks led losses, as crude failed to retake the US$50 handle. VIX higher at 10.44, up 1.56%. Meanwhile, gains in US Treasuries were led by the long-end. 2y benchmark yields were lower by 2 bps to 1.34%, while 10y yields slumped 5 bps to 2.22%. Mueller news provided the underlying impetus to buy Treasuries as investors sought safety ahead of possible political uncertainty. Additional support were provided by the weakening USD and higher gilts following the BOE's monetary decision. Watch for non-farm payrolls and hourly earnings data later today for further indications of Fed's policy inclinations.
- Singapore: STI fell 0.18% to close at 3342.92 yesterday, but may range trade within a 3320-3350 range today amid mixed cues from Wall Street overnight. DBS reported 2Q net income rose 9% yoy at $1.13b amid higher net interest income and lower allowances for bad debts. With UST bond yields rallying some 2-6bps led by the longer-dated tenors, SGS bonds may open firmer but mostly tread water today ahead of tonight's key US NFP report.
