

Highlights

Global	Volatility in the currency market was woken up this week by the forming expectation that global major central banks are going to play catch up in exiting their easing policies and that the policy divergence between the ECB and Fed may start to narrow. The US dollar weakened yesterday as the Euro jumped a cent after the latest ECB meeting minutes showed that the ECB plans to shift their forward guidance gradually. Policy makers in the ECB are more upbeat on the economic outlook. Although policy makers noted that measures of underlying inflation had weakened, they still think “communication would need to evolve gradually, without a change in sequencing, if the economy continued to expand and inflation converged further toward the Governing Council’s aim”. The minutes also showed that the forward guidance could be “revisited early” in 2018. The German economy accelerated to 2.2% yoy in 2017, from 1.9% yoy in 2016. The fastest growth in six years also reinforced the ECB’s optimism about the growth outlook.
US	The US PPI missed the consensus in December and fell by 0.1% mom after 0.4% mom gain. The first drop in more than a year was mainly due to the decline of service cost while goods prices remained unchanged. For tonight, the market will closely monitor the US December CPI. The GOP tax cut started to yield positive outcome. The world’s largest retailer Wal-Mart announced to raise its US starting pay to US$11 per hour from US$10 per hour previously as well as one-time cash bonuses. In addition, the outgoing New York Fed President William Dudley warned overheating risk in the US economy, partly fuelled by tax cuts. “if the labor market were to tighten much further, there would be a greater risk that inflation could rise substantially above our objective.” This may force the Fed to raise rates faster. Equities recovered from the decline on Wednesday to mark a big gain on Thursday as a sense of calm returned to the markets. Energy stocks are the biggest winner, rising alongside crude prices. Ever greater spotlight will put on upcoming earnings, to shed light on whether the good run will continue to have legs. Major indices continue to hit records, with S&P 500 gaining 0.70% to 2767.56, while the Dow and Nasdaq Composite both added 0.81%. VIX marginally higher at 9.88, compared to 9.82 previously. Normalcy returned to the Treasury markets after the gyrations on Wednesday. Long-dated Treasuries led advances as the curve flattened again. The 10y benchmark yield slipped 2 bps to 2.537%, while the 2y yield ended marginally higher at 1.979%.
CN	China’s currency regulator denied the media report yesterday that China is considering slowing or even halting the purchase of US Treasuries. The spokesman said the news may quote the wrong sources or may be the fake news. He added that China’s purchase of US Treasuries will depend on the market conditions.
ID	Bank Indonesia will be meeting for the first time next week. We continue to expect that the BI will hold, and retain a neutral stance into the year.

Major Market

- Singapore: The Straits Times Index ended lower yesterday (-0.22%), closing at 3,512.7. Main movers include ComfortDelgro Corp Ltd (+1.01%) and Yangzijiang Shipbuilding Holdings Ltd (+0.64%). Overnight gains in the US last night may provide some positive leads for the STI today.
- Macau: Housing transactions increased by 5.2% mom to 936 deals in November 2017, which reflects upbeat sentiment in the primary housing market. Nevertheless, housing transactions dropped on yearly basis for the fourth consecutive month by 27.8% yoy. Approved new mortgage loans (+44.9% mom) also fell for the fourth straight month by 9.8% yoy to MOP4.06 billion. Average housing prices fell by 2.8% YTD in November 2017. Secondary housing market has been cooled down by new property control measures and higher borrowing costs. Therefore, the performance of housing market as a whole in 2H 2017 was weaker than the same period of 2016. Moving forward, we expect more new home projects to be launched in the coming months as housing completions soared by 989% yoy to 4314 units during the first eleven months of 2017. Though we expect housing transactions to remain muted in the secondary market, primary market may remain supported by positive economic outlook, wealth effect from stock market and solid labor market. Therefore, average housing price is likely to stabilize around its current level.

- Rating Changes: Moody's has assigned Tunas Baru Lampung Tbk International Pte Ltd's (TBLA) senior backed unsecured bond a rating of 'Ba3'. The outlook is stable. The rating action follows its 'Ba3' corporate family rating coupled with its established position as an integrated palm oil producer, with growing exposure to the Indonesia sugar industry. However, Moody's acknowledge that TBLA's rating is constrained by its small scale, exposure to volatile crude palm oil prices and unstable cash from operations resulting from uncertainties across Indonesia's import quotas for raw sugar. Moody's has assigned China Ping An Insurance Overseas Ltd (PAOH) a rating of 'Baa2'. The outlook is stable. The rating actions reflects PAOH's strong parental support and high integration with Ping An Insurance Company Of China Ltd, its good brand recognition and stable business growth supported by the demand for an overseas asset allocation from Ping an Group and its affiliates. Moody's has lowered Charter Hall Retail REIT's outlook to negative, citing that its elevated financial leverage, as a result of its new property acquisition and development expenditures, is above the tolerance level for its 'Baa1' rating.
