

Highlights

Global	Risk appetite stayed buoyant amid US stocks approaching fresh records, while the 10y- treasury yields rose for the second day as recent trade barbs were seen to be less severe than feared. Amid the tensions, note that China plans to implement a 10% tariff on US LNG imports, though Chinese authorities stressed that it will not weaken the RMB to boost trade competitiveness. Elsewhere, US secretary of state Pompeo called for fresh talks with Pyongyang with the goal of achieving denuclearization, following two days of talks between Kim and S. Korea President Moon. In central bank news, the Bank of Japan kept its policy parameters unchanged and cited that monetary easing will not cease until inflation hits the 2.0% target. The Bank of Thailand has also kept rates unchanged, citing risks pertaining to the impacts of trade protectionism. Note also that NZ GDP grew faster-than-expected at 2.8% y/y (+1.0% qoqsa), marking its fastest pace in two years, led by farm production and household spending. We are seeing a relatively quieter economic calendar today. Watch for US initial jobless claims and existing home sales, HK CPI and EC consumer confidence. Also look out for OECD's interim economic outlook projections later today.
US	Housing starts rose more than expected in August to 9.2% to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 1.282 million units, suggesting a positive sign for the housing market which has generally underperformed the broader economy due to rising interest rates for home loans.
SG	COE prices were mixed at the latest bidding result. Category A and Category B COE premiums fell $2,209 and $694, respectively, while Category C and E rose $103 and $199.
CH	Premier Li Keqiang said yesterday in summer World Economic Forum that China will not go back to old path of excessive easing. Meanwhile, he also denied the speculation that the recent RMB depreciation is engineered by Chinese government. He said the cost of one-way depreciation is higher than benefit and China will not consider competitive devaluation as the option.
TH	The Bank of Thailand kept its policy rate unchanged at 1.50% as widely expected, citing that its domestic economy is projected to gain traction driven by both external and domestic factors. Still, two dissenters who called for a rate hike deem that expansion is sufficiently robust and a rate hike is in order to curb financial stability risks. Importantly, the MPC report cited explicitly that the "need for currently accommodative monetary policy would be gradually reduced", thus signalling BOT's decision to eventually hike interest rates in the foreseeable future.
CMD	Crude oil prices rose to its two-month high on EIA's data which indicated lower crude oil stockpiles by 2.1 million barrels last week to 394 million barrels. This marks the fifth straight weekly decline and it's the lowest since Feb 2015.

Major Markets
