

SHARIAH COMMITTEE OF OCBC AL-AMIN BANK (ISLAMIC BANK OF OCBC GROUP)

ROLE OF THE SHARIAH COMMITTEE

The Shariah Committee is made up of prominent Islamic scholars who are not only competent in Shariah (Islamic laws) but also possess good banking and economic knowledge. These qualities ensure that the council not only provides OCBC Bank with Shariah advice but the advice is provided with good understanding on how a bank and its financial products work.

The Council performs advisory role to OCBC Bank to ensure Shariah requirements and standards are met in the following areas:

- Sources and applications of Islamic Banking product funds – to ensure the Islamic banking funds are clearly segregated from conventional funds
- Product features such as imposition of charges – To ensure element of “interest” or “Riba” is not present
- Accounting processes – To ensure that financial transactions involving Islamic Banking products is accounted for separately from financial transactions involving conventional products
- Marketing collaterals – To ensure that the wordings and images used do not contravene the underlying Shariah concept used by the product which is being marketed in the collaterals
