Global	Risk appetite continued to strengthen in March, lifted by recovering oil prices and better than expected US economic prints. In particular, US' ADP employment added 214k in Feb, up from the revised 193k in Jan, and setting the stage for the Feb nonfarm payrolls and unemployment report due tomorrow. Meanwhile, the Fed's Beige Book also indicated that "economic activity expanded in most districts" and "across the nation, business contacts were generally optimistic about future economic growth". With the market sentiments for the US having improved of late, note that the Bloomberg consensus forecast for tomorrow's NFP is +195k in Feb, up from +151k in Jan, with unemployment rate tipped to be unchanged at 4.9%. For today, watch for US' non-manufacturing ISM, Markit services and composite PMI, initial jobless claims, factory orders, and Challenger job cuts, UK's Nationwide house price, Eurozone's Jan retail sales, and the slew of services/composite PMIs from Europe and Asia including China's Caixin.
ns	The Fed's Beige book elaborated that "consumer spending increased in the majority of districts" and "residential real estate sales rose in most districts since the last report, and home inventories were low in the majority of districts". In addition, "labour market conditions continued to improve, with the majority of districts reporting modest gains" and "wage growth varied considerably, from flat to strong, across all districts, and most districts reported that consumer prices held steady".
Singapore	A further softening in both headline and electronics sectors to 48.5 (low since Oct12) and 48.2 respectively in Feb, down from Jan readings of 49.0 and 48.5, suggests there is no stabilization yet, albeit this could be partly skewed by the CNY holidays. Given the slide in the gauges for new export orders (down for 13th straight months and looks like a record low since at least Sep09 for the manufacturing sector), total new orders, production, imports and order backlogs, the current picture looks rather grim for manufacturers (although this is generally true across Asia especially in Greater China markets) and does add to the risk of a technical recession for the S'pore economy in 1H16. Today's Nikkei S'pore's PMI will be interesting to watch if it can sustain around the Jan print of 52.5 after bottoming out at 49.5 in May last year, since the services sector is the main engine supporting growth.
China	Rating agency Moody's downgraded China's outlook to negative from stable despite retaining its Aa3 rating ahead of China's National People's Congress meeting, citing policy implementation risk amid rising government debt and falling reserve. However, Moody's still believed that China's sizeable reserve and ample fiscal room will buy more time for China to implement reforms. Nevertheless, market has largely ignored the news.
Commo- dities	The market continued to push crude oil futures higher, now with WTI inching towards the $35/bbl handle, while Brent just seeing a $2.2/bbl premium. Note that Saudi Arabia raised its oil export price to Asia (+25cents), to the highest since October, while lowering export prices (-20cents) to the US.

Major Market

- US: Wall Street extended modest gains yesterday, as energy shares took the lead from recovering crude oil prices, lifting the Dow +0.20%, S&P500 +0.41% and Nasdaq +0.29%. VIX -3.45% to 17.09. The UST bond market stabilised slightly, with the 2- and 10-year bond yields only a tad higher at 0.86% and 1.84% respectively.
- Singapore: The STI surged 1.66% to close at 2726.96 yesterday, taking the lead from the rally in Asian bourses, especially Nikkei and Shanghai Composite Index. Given the positive overnight Wall Street lead, the STI could attempt to extend its lead further towards the 2740 resistance today, with initial support at 2700. SGS bonds could remain under pressure following a more upbeat Fed's Beige Book and ADP employment print for the US economy, with yields likely to rise modestly today.
- Indonesia: A 7.8-Richter scale earthquake struck near the island of Sumatra last evening. Fortunately, early fears about tsunami proved to be unfounded. According to official reports, there were no known deaths and significant material damage.
- Commodities: Exxon Mobil Corp CEO Rex Tillerson commented drilling expenditure will continue to drop through the end of 2017 given low oil prices. Elsewhere, India raised its import tax for gold dore to 8.75% (from 8.0%) while a 1% excise tax was introduced for gold jewellery, though keeping its bullion import tax unchanged at 10%. Seperately, note that Codelco, the world's biggest copper producer, continues to expect a global copper glut to persist through this year and next.

Fitch also downgraded People's Leasing & Finance PLC, which is based in Sri Lanka, to "B" from "B+". Outlook is negative.
