

Highlights

Global	With the partial US government shutdown impasse likely to drag over from the weekend and US president Trump's attendance at Davos for the annual World Economic Forum potentially jeopardised, global risk appetite may tread a more cautious path at this start of this week, albeit investors may be eager to buy on dips ahead of an expected resolution. In contrast, Germany's Social Democrats have backed formal coalition talks with Chancellor Merkel. Elsewhere, OPEC and Russia have reaffirmed their alliance on production cuts till year-end. Asian bourses may trade in a range today, awaiting further news about the US government shutdown negotiations. Today's economic calendar is again relatively light with only US' Chicago Fed national activity index, Taiwan export orders and unemployment rate, and Malaysia's foreign reserves data. UK PM May's Brexit legislation heads to the House of Lords. For this week, watch for BOJ meeting on Tue and ECB and BNM on Thu. While these central banks are likely to stay pat, nevertheless market players remain sensitized to any hints of stealth tapering, so they have to strike a fine balance between increased economic optimism and market anxiety over early withdrawal of monetary policy stimulus. In addition, US earnings season remains in full swing, with Netflix, Halliburton, GE, Intel, Starbucks etc posting results this week.
US	The prelim Jan University of Michigan sentiments unexpectedly slipped from 95.9 in Dec to 94.4 as the current conditions gauge fell from 113.8 to 109.2, whereas the expectations gauge remained healthy at 84.8 (versus 84.3 previously). Meanwhile, President Trump has received the government study into US aluminium imports that could result in tariffs or quotas on foreign producers, and is also expected to decide whether to crack down on solar panel and washing machine imports. This is likely to cast market attention on the recent RMB strength as USDRMB approached the 6.4 handle.
SG	The Health Ministry has set up a 13-member committee to recommend "reasonable" national benchmarks for medical fees by 2H18. Meanwhile, passengers departing from Changi Airport may soon have to pay from $10-15 as part of a new tax being considered to help finance T5 and major works in Changi East, according to the ST.
CMD	Market-players were obviously spooked by more climbs in US oil production (+258kbpd) in the week ended 12th January 2018, despite overall crude oil stocks falling 6.9 mbpd over the same period. Crude oil prices were lower over the weekend, suggesting that Brent's value at $70/bbl was likely a passing mirage. In another bid to support prices, note that OPEC and Russia had signalled their decision to sustain production cap levels until the end of this year. Elsewhere, safe haven demand into gold likely ensued on news of US' partial government shutdown, and could stay supported as global risk appetite remains on a cautious tone.

Major Market

- US: Equities pushed higher despite the threat of a government shutdown, with major indices recovering from the previous day's losses to close at record highs. Watch for latest developments on this front, as the Friday deadline passed without an agreement to extend the debt ceiling. The US government is effectively on partial shutdown over the weekend, but a last-ditch attempt to come to an agreement is scheduled in the early hours of Monday in Washington. Overall, the S&P 500 added 0.44%, while the Dow and Nasdaq Composite gained 0.21% and 0.55% respectively. VIX lower at 11.27, compared to 12.22 previously.
- Meanwhile, US Treasury bond yields were higher across the board, with the curve steepening from the long end. 2y benchmark yield added 2 bps to 2.065%. Eyes on the 10y yield as it pushes further away from the 2.60% handle, adding 3 bps to 2.659%. Watch for whether this push higher will be sustained, as previous attempts to meaningfully break beyond 2.60% ended with failure.
- Singapore: The STI added 0.82% to close at 3550.36 on Friday, but may find further rallies tough as market players try to take the pulse of how much the US government shutdown may affect financial markets. STI may trade between 3525-3560 today. With the UST bond yields steepening further led by the long-dated bonds, the SGS bond market will again follow suit today.
- China: China's Forex Market Self-Discipline Mechanism Secretariat published the Q&A on the use of counter cyclical factor in RMB's fixing mechanism last Friday. The organization, which consists of key interbank forex market players, said most of its members have adjusted the counter cyclical factor back to neutral. However, the formula, which includes CCF, has not been changed. As such, the CCF is likely to be triggered again should market condition change again. In addition, China's central bank said last Friday that it will launch a counter cyclical coefficient to cross border RMB financing to better manage cross border capital flows. The ceiling of RMB cross border financing will depend on two parameters including bank's outstanding of total RMB deposits and counter cyclical factor, which will be set at 3% currently.

Bond Market Updates

- Market Commentary: The SGD swap curve bear-steepened last Friday, with swap rates for the shorter tenors trading at 1-3bps higher while the longer tenors traded at 4-6bps higher. In the broader dollar space, both the Bloomberg Barclays Asia USD IG Bond Index average OAS and the Bloomberg Barclays Asia USD HY Bond Index average OAS traded little changed at 107bps and 325bps respectively. 10Y UST yield rose 3.4bps to 2.661% as Treasuries were weighed down by the government shutdown drama in Washington that happened last Friday.
- New Issues: Housing & Development Board has priced a SGD15mn 10-year bond at 2.32%. Beijing Capital Group Co Ltd has scheduled for investor meetings from 22 Jan for its potential USD bond issuance. FWD Ltd has scheduled for investor meetings from 22 Jan for its potential USD subordinated Perp bond issuance. The expected issue ratings are 'NR/Ba2/BB+'. Tsinghua Holdings Co Ltd has scheduled for investor meetings from 22 Jan for its potential USD bond issuance. Golden Energy & Resources Ltd scheduled for investor meetings from 22 Jan for its potential USD bond issuance. The expected issue ratings are 'NR/B1/B+'. Union Medical Healthcare Ltd has scheduled investor meetings in Hong Kong and Singapore over January 22-24 for its proposed dollar bond issue. The expected issue ratings are 'NR/B1/NR'. United Co RUSAL PLC has scheduled roadshows for its potential 5-7 year USD senior unsecured bond issuance. The expected issue ratings are 'NR/Ba3/BB-'.

- Rating Changes: Fitch has assigned a final rating of 'AA-' to Sindicatum Renewable Company Pte Ltd for its guaranteed green bonds. The outlook is stable. The rating action reflects the credit enhancement provided to investors by the guarantee from GuarantCo Ltd, with the guarantee covering 100% of the principal and interest due on the bonds. Moody's has assigned a 'B1' corporate family rating to Golden Energy and Resources Ltd (GEAR). The outlook is stable. The rating action reflects GEAR's moderate financial profile, supported by its prudent capital management and performance during the recent downturn in coal prices. However, Moody's acknowledged the high concentration risk to a single commodity and a single mine, as well as execution risk associated with the capacity expansion at GEAR, where production is expected to triple by 2021 relative to that of 2017. S&P raised Toshiba Corp's rating by 2 notches to 'CCC+' from 'CCC-', maintaining it on CreditWatch for upgrade. The rating action reflects the heightened likelihood of Toshiba erasing its negative net worth due to the deal of selling Westinghouse-related assets, significantly reducing its chances of undertaking a debt restructuring in the near term.
