Highlights

Global	News of explosions in Brussels sent market players in a flight for safety yesterday afternoon, but financial markets in Europe quickly stabilised. Fed's Evans opined that the US economic fundamentals were "really quite good" and most Fed members' "cautionary pause in the rate normalisation path is about assessing risks and just being careful", therefore "the continuation of a wait-and-see monetary response is appropriate to ensure that economic growth continues, labour markets strengthen further, wages begin to increase more, and all of this supports an eventual increase in currently low inflation, right back up to our 2 percent objective". Coupled with the more upbeat economic data prints from the US and Europe, this helped to blunt the edge of yesterday's terrorist concerns. Expect Asian markets to tread softly ahead of the month/quarter-end and upcoming long holiday weekend. Today's data calendar is relatively light and key focus will be the BOT and BSP policy decisions (both tipped to be unchanged at 1.5% and 4% respectively), US new home sales and S'pore's inflation data.
US	The Markit manufacturing PMI improved from 51.3 in Feb to 51.4 in Mar, while the Richmond Fed manufacturing gauge rose from -4 to +22 in Mar.
EZ	The region's manufacturing, services and composite PMIs showed broad-based improvements in March. However, Germany's Markit PMI fell from 50.5 in Feb to its slowest pace in 16 months of 50.4 in Mar, albeit the services PMI improved from 55.3 to 55.5. Meanwhile, German IFO business climate rose more than tipped from 105.7 to 106.7, with both the current and expectations gauges rising to 113.8 (previously 112.9) and 100.0 (previously 98.9) respectively, and this helped to buffer risks of a slowdown.
Japan	The Nikkei manufacturing PMI unexpectedly fell from 50.1 in Feb to a 3-year low of 49.1 in Mar, amid a strengthening JPY and weak external demand. However, the all industry index rose 2.0% mom in Jan, the most since April 2011. Note Paul Krugman has urged Japanese PM to skip the sales tax hike and expand fiscal stimulus instead.
S'pore	Headline and core CPI could print at -1.1% yoy (+0.3% mom nsa) and 0.3% yoy respectively in Mar, versus -0.6% yoy (-0.2% mom nsa) and 0.4% in Feb, but may start to reflect the recovery in crude oil prices in coming months. The COE tender results are also due today.
China	China's currency regulator SAFE said during a press conference that net capital outflows have moderated further in March, signalling improvement in sentiments. Tobin tax, which is still under study, may be added into China's toolbox. SAFE also said the 2.8% depreciation of CFETs RMB index is not significant, hinting higher tolerance. Caixin also reported that China may lower the minimum loan loss provision coverage ratio for the seven big banks to alleviate pressures on falling profits despite rising bad debts.
Commodities	Crude oil rose as markets reacted to OPEC's expectation for oil to rebound to a 'moderate' level even if Iran does not agree to the production freeze move, a strategy likely to be discussed in the upcoming Doha talks on April 17. Secretary-general of OPEC, Abdalla El-Badri, commented that he hopes that oil prices have "bottomed", and expects it to rebound going forward. Elsewhere, gold rallied further likely on safe haven demand after the terrorist attack on Brussels yesterday.

Major Market

- US: Wall Street slid modestly yesterday after paring initial losses, with the Dow -0.23%, S&P500 -0.09% and Nasdaq +0.27%. VIX +2.76% to 14.17. The UST bonds could not capitalise on the initial flight to safety bids yesterday, and the 2- and 10-year bond yields closed a tad higher for the second session at 0.89% and 1.94% respectively.
- Singapore: The STI ended flat at 2880.65 yesterday, and may trade sideways today given the slight risk-off mood, given weak overnight leads from Wall Street. STI could see support at 2860 and resistance at 2900. Meanwhile, SGS bonds may be supported today ahead of the CPI inflation data release and month/quarter-end, especially with the terrorist attacks.
- Canada: PM Trudeau's government will add C$11b in annual spending to result in a projected deficit of C$29.4b for the coming FY, with no plan to return to a balanced budget over five years.
- Indonesia: Finance Minister, Bambang Brodjonegoro, said that the government plans to adjust its oil price assumption in the revised budget for 2016, saying that it is "too ambitious". The original budget assumes oil price of USD50/barrel. Meanwhile VP Jusuf Kalla reportedly said that the government may have to lower its spending target to keep the budget deficit from widening.
- Thailand: The Constitution Drafting Committee (CDC) have said to be "meeting each other (meaning the CDC and the NCPO) halfway", according to the words of CDC spokesman Norachit Sinhaseni, agreeing to the junta's proposal to introduce an appointed 250 member strong Senate during the five-year post-election transition to full democracy. The members will be selected by an independent selection panel.
- Commodities: On agriculture and soft commodities, the harsh weathers have left prices surging, especially with coffee that rose to its highest since Oct 2015, while rally in crude palm oil saw no reprieve, with the commodity price at the highest since May 2014.

Bond Market Updates

- Market Commentary: The entire SGD swap curve traded relatively flat yesterday with the curve 1bp higher at the short end while the long-end rates also traded up 1bp. In the broader dollar space, JACI IG corporates spread continued to be somewhat range bound decreasing less than 1bp to 231bps, while the yield on the JACI HY corporates increase 1bp to 7.80%. 10y UST widened by ~2bps to 1.94%, continuing its bullish streak from yesterday.
- New Issues: Credit Union Australia launches a 3-Year Aussie floating-rate bond. TA Corporation Ltd, a property and construction group, priced a SGD40mn 2-year bond at 5.5%.
- Rating Changes: Toshiba's local currency long term debt has been downgraded by Moody's to B3 from B2 while its subordinated debt has been correspondingly downgraded to Caa3 from Caa2, citing concerns that the strength of the company's core business operations and ability to manage its high debt load are being significantly challenged. Hengdeli Holdings Ltd, a leading wholesaler/distributor of watches based in China was downgraded by Fitch to B+ with a Stable outlook from BB. The downgrade reflects higher business risk from the slowdown in market for luxury watches and continued financial deterioration. Kerry Properties Ltd's BBB- rating was placed on negative outlook by S&P, reflecting the weakened leverage of the company from volatility in the recognition of property development sales, delays at its Shanghai project, high capital expenditure for land premiums and construction. Woodside Petroleum's ratings have been confirmed at Baa1 with negative outlook by Moody's. Soilbuild Business REIT has been confirmed an initial rating of Baa3 with a stable outlook by Moody's. Fitch Ratings Indonesia has revised the outlook on 3 Indonesian palm oil producers to negative. These issuers are wholly-owned subsidiaries of Golden Agri Resources Ltd ("Golden Agri"). The outlook revision was premised on Golden Agri's heightened leverage levels and expansion in its downstream business which have pressured cash flow generation.
