

Highlights

Global	Wall Street fell yesterday amid concerns over the trade tensions and declines in the share price of some big technology firms such as Apple, which would reportedly be cutting production orders of its iPhones. Federal Reserve Bank of New York President John Williams reiterated his positive assessment on the US economy and job market, and said: "We'll be likely raising interest rates somewhat but it's really in the context of a very strong economy," whilst also emphasizing that they are not "on a preset course" but instead they work to adjust "to keep this economy going strong with low inflation" and get "monetary policy back to more normal levels". This suggests that cracks in growth overseas are not the key constraints to the Fed as long as the domestic economy remains resilient. On the Brexit front, the threshold of 48 lawmakers submitting letters for a vote of no confidence in May's leadership has reportedly still not been reached with just more than 20 MPs known to have publicly confirmed to have done so. The Prime Minister has been in talks with some key Brexiters including having just met Iain Duncan Smith and Owen Paterson yesterday. EU officials have said that any extension of a transition period should have a maximum cut-off date of end-2022 whilst May's spokesman says it must end before the next general election, which also has to be held by 2022. Meanwhile, Germany has said that 18 Saudi citizens who are suspected to be involved in the killing of Jamal Khashoggi have been banned from travelling into the Schengen area. Asian markets are likely to decline following the fall in the US markets yesterday. Key economic data releases today includes Germany PPI, French jobs data, US housing data and Taiwan trade data.
US	The NAHB Housing Market Index slipped 8 points to 60 in November from 68 in the previous month (lowest since August 2016), with the current run of rising interest rates likely cooling the housing market due to higher mortgage costs.
CH	China's tax authority rolled out more measures to support private owned companies via tax cut for small and micro companies. Meanwhile, the interest income from loans to small and micro companies will be exempted from the value added tax to incentivize banks to lend to small companies.
HK	Unemployment rate has remained unchanged at an over two-decade low of 2.8% for seven consecutive three-month periods during August to October 2018. This indicates a still tight labor market. Nonetheless, we expect hiring sentiments to weaken in the coming quarters amid a slew of external uncertainties.
TH	Growth slowed to 3.3% yoy for 3Q 2018 (2Q 2018: 4.6% yoy) as weaker net exports offset any strengthening in the domestic demand. Household spending rose by 5.0% yoy whilst investment increased by 3.9% yoy. However, imports rose by 10.7% yoy whilst exports decreased by 0.1% yoy.
ID	According to Bank Indonesia data, private sector debt grew by 6.7% yoy in 3Q 2018 compared to 5.8% yoy in the previous quarter. Meanwhile, the government will be undertaking a bond auction tomorrow, which is expected to be the last for the year.

Major Markets

- US: Wall Street ended sharply lower on Monday, with the Nasdaq composite plummeting 3.03%. The S&P500 fell by 1.66%, while the DJIA dipped 1.56%.
- Nissan Motor shares plunged 5.85% on the arrest of Chairman Carlos Ghosn in Japan on financial misconduct, including under-reporting of securities compensation and “personal use of company assets”.
- Apple equity dipped 3.96% along with several of its suppliers on a Wall Street Journal report that Apple cut production of the iPhone XR “in the past week”, dampening revenue outlook on concerns of lower sales.
- JD.com stock fell 8.42% after the Chinese e-commerce giant said it expected 4Q revenue that was below market consensus.

- Singapore: The STI fell 0.60% on Monday to 3,065.07. Hong Kong Land Holdings (+0.78%) and City Developments (+0.72%) led the ascent, while Jardine Matheson Holdings (-2.91%) and Jardine Strategic Holdings (-2.91%) marked losses.

- Philippines: Central Bank Governor Nestor Espenilla has assured that he is “physically fine” but he will be limiting public appearances as he says that he has “temporary speaking limitations”.

- Hong Kong: Looking at unemployment by sector, first, trade sector’s unemployment rate decreased to 2.3%, the lowest since 2Q 2018. Should US-China trade tensions become a prolonged war, HK’s trade sector and the sector’s employment would inevitably take a hit. Second, the jobless rate of retail sector hovered around a nearly five-year low at 3.9%. Nonetheless, inbound tourism and tourist spending have been weighed down by trade war fears, China’s slowdown and a strong HKD. Recent stock rout and higher interest rates may also hurt local consumer sentiment. As such, we expect retail sector’s unemployment rate to increase gradually. Third, the unemployment rate of financial sector dropped to 2.0%, the lowest since December 2017 to January 2018. Stock market correction and local rates hike cycle together would also weigh down the outlook of the financial sector and its employment. In a nutshell, we expect overall unemployment rate to increase gradually to 2.9%.

Bond Market Updates

- Market Commentary: The SGD swap curve flattened yesterday, with swap rates trading 1-2bps lower across most tenors. The Bloomberg Barclays Asia USD IG Bond Index average OAS widened 1bps to 155bps while the Bloomberg Barclays Asia USD HY Bond Index average OAS widened 12bps to 614bps. 10Y UST yields rose 4bps to 3.09% in the earlier part of the trading session ahead of the speech from New York Federal Reserve President John Williams. Yields subsequently fell 3bps to close at a six-week low of 3.06% on the back of safe haven demand due to tumbling tech stocks.
