

Highlights

Global	With a more buoyant Wall Street on Friday, Asian bourses may trade on a firmer tone this morning as well, but key to watch this week includes the new Fed chair Powell's congressional testimony tomorrow which may shed light on the rate hike trajectory going forward and his views on inflation and the labour market. Assuming that Powell does not rock the boat and reiterates a gradual tightening path, this may clear the way for markets to continue on its risk-on mode in the interim. Elsewhere, China's Communist Party is set to repeal a constitutional provision barring the head of state from serving more than two consecutive terms, while Russia's sovereign credit rating was upgraded from junk (BB+) to BBB- with a stable outlook. Today's economic data releases include US' new home sales, Chicago Fed national activity and Dallas Fed manufacturing activity, S'pore industrial production (tipped at 6.3% yoy and 0.8% mom sa), and Taiwan's unemployment rate. BOK is also likely static at 1.5% tomorrow, but market watchers would be watching for future policy direction. Speakers include Fed's Bullard and Quarles, ECB's Coeure and BOE's Cunliffe.
US	Fed's Kaplan opined that "you should expect a continuation of the way we've been operating" under new Fed chair Powell and three hikes this year is still a "reasonable base case".
SG	Jan CPI was unexpectedly stagnant at 0% yoy (-0.2% mom nsa), undershooting expectations for 0.4% yoy (0.2% mom nsa) and a moderation from the 0.4% yoy (-0.1% mom nsa) seen in Dec17. Bearing in mind the Chinese New Year festive season fell in Jan last year, the factors weighing on headline inflation were a steeper drop in accommodation cost (-5.3% yoy due to S&CC rebate disbursement) and lower private road transport inflation (1.6% yoy amid lower car prices and COE premiums). However, core CPI accelerated from 1.3% yoy in Dec17 to 1.4% yoy in Jan, as the bigger hike in retail item costs outweighed the decline in food inflation. The muted Jan18 CPI prints suggest no immediate inflation acceleration concerns. MTI-MAS language remain benign – import inflation is likely to rise mildly, cost pressures in the economy remain relatively restrained, and there is no change to the official 2018 headline and core inflation forecasts of 0-1% and 1-2% yoy respectively. That said, MAS is still likely to tweak monetary policy by adjusting back to an appreciation SGD NEER slope this year.
CN	China's banking regulator unveiled revised rules to standardize and clarify procedures for foreign banks operation and investment in China. The revised rules followed the guidance from the 19th Party Congress to further open China's financial market.
CMD	Unexpected oil export disruptions in Libya sent oil prices climbing into the weekend amid upbeat comments from Saudi Arabia that an OPEC-led oil curb is working in cutting stockpiles. Note Libya's shutdown of its 70,000 barrels per day (or about 7% of total Libya's production) El Feel oilfield given the ongoing pay disputes. Our view for palm prices to edge lower into the year remains unchanged however, given Asia's strong palm production and a stronger ringgit that could potentially leave prices lower than 2017's levels.

Major Market

- US: Equities closed last week on a strong note, with S&P 500 adding 1.60%. The Dow and Nasdaq Composite also moved higher by 1.39% and 1.77% respectively. VIX moved lower to 16.49, compared to 18.72 previously. Led by the long end, US Treasuries also advanced alongside equities. Yields were lower by 1-6 bps, with the 10y yield slumping to 2.866% at NY close. The 2y yield also fell to 2.238%.
- This week, we will hear Powell's testimonies to the House (Tuesday) and the Senate (Thursday), and other Fed-speak from Bullard and Quarles (both Monday). Key data prints include GDP and PCE inflation. Expect investors to continually refine their rate hike expectations over Powell's comments in the inflation data release. This will have lead-on effects on equities and Treasury markets, as it has been in the past weeks.
- Singapore: The STI rallied 1.28% to close at 3533.22 on Friday, and may trade firmer this morning given the Wall Street's Friday rally and morning gains by Kospi. STI support and resistance are tipped at 3500 and 3550. With the longer-dated UST bonds leading gains on Friday and flattening the yield curve, the SGS bond market may also open higher today, but watch for the $1.7b re-opening of the 30-year SGS bond maturing on a Mar 2046 which we think should receive a fairly warm reception at current yield levels as we see fair value around 2.8-2.9% region.
- China: There are three notable changes from the new rule which has been effective from 13 Feb after CBRC issued the drafted rules in December 2017. First, the revisions clarified procedures and application materials for foreign banks to invest in onshore Chinese banks and will serve as the legal basis for foreign banks to acquire the ownership in Chinese banks. Second, the revisions also scrapped approval procedures for foreign banks in four areas including overseas wealth management products, custody and portfolio investment funds etc. Third, the revisions also simplified procedures for foreign banks to set up new branches, appoint executives and issue bonds. The latest move underpins China's commitment to further open up its banking sector.
- Korea: Consumer spending data, including that of Department Stores Sales and Discount Store Sales data, are slated to be out later today. The spending data could provide further evidences of positive spillover effects the robust external environment could give to overall domestic spending.
- Indonesia: President Jokowi has nominated Deputy Governor Perry Warjiyo to become the next Governor of BI. Perry Warjiyo is a career central banker with over 30 years of experience, particularly in the areas of monetary policy, economic research and foreign exchange management. His appointment signals a continuity in the monetary policy stance for BI and it could be confirmed by parliament as early as next month after a "fit and proper test". BI has indicated this year that it is unlikely to further ease interest rates as the central bank instead focuses to ensure economic stability in light of the threat of higher US interest rates.
- Commodities: Meanwhile, global oil stockpiles are expected to decline further into the year, as retorted by Saudi's al-Falih, given OPEC+ ongoing production curb efforts. Crude palm oil prices closed moderately higher into Friday's closing, as slowing Asia's palm production coupled with extreme weathers in Argentina led futures higher.

Bond Market Updates

- Market Commentary: The SGD swap curve bull-flattened last Friday, with swap rates for the shorter tenors trading 2bps lower while the longer tenors traded 2-3bps lower. In the broader dollar space, both the Bloomberg Barclays Asia USD IG Bond Index average OAS and the Bloomberg Barclays Asia USD HY Bond Index average OAS widened 2bps to 113bps and 345bps respectively. 10Y UST yields fell 5bps to 2.86%, extending the decline from the prior day as a semi-annual report on monetary policy from the Federal Reserve noted that the economy may be beyond full employment but that wage increases and inflation risks were moderate.
- New issues: KEB Hana Bank has priced a USD425mn 5-year FRN Formosa at 3mL+80bps, tightening from its initial guidance of 3mL+83bps area. The expected issue ratings are 'A+/NR/NR'. PT Toba Bara Sejahtera Tbk PT has scheduled for investor meetings from 26 Feb for its potential USD issuance. The expected issue ratings are 'NR/B3/B-'.
- Rating changes: Moody's has assigned a 'B3' corporate family rating to PT Toba Bara Sejahtera Tbk (Toba Bara) and a 'B3' rating to its proposed senior secured bond. The outlook is stable. The rating action reflects Toba Bara's scale and concentration risks as well as its acquisitive strategy. Fitch also assigned a 'B-' issuer default rating to Toba Bara with a stable outlook. Fitch has affirmed PT Saka Energi Indonesia's (Saka) 'BB+' issuer default rating. The outlook has been revised to stable from positive. The outlook revision follows Fitch linking Saka's rating to its parent – PT Perusahaan Gas Negara Tbk's (PGN) standalone credit profile of 'BBB-' rather than PGN's issuer default rating. The linkage arises largely from Saka's mandate to improve the vertical integration of PGN, together with substantial financial assistance provided to Saka by PGN to expand its scale since its inception in 2011. The rating action reflects Fitch's belief that Saka's linkages with PGN will continue to be strong as well as Fitch's recent publication of its rating criteria for Government Related Entities. This resulted in PGN's 'BBB-' issuer default ratings being affirmed while its outlook was revised to stable from positive.
