Daily Treasury Outlook

11 September 2020

Highlights

Global: Tech bears return, driving the S&P 500 index and the Nasdaq 100 Composite index down 1.76% and 1.99% respectively, as heavyweight tech stocks resumed their declines. VIX rose to 29.71, while UST bonds bull-flattened with the 10-year yield lower to 0.68% amid a strong $23b 30year auction that fetched 1.473%. The 3-month LIBOR eased to 0.2491%. Meanwhile, the ECB kept its policy settings static while ECB president Lagarde signalled comfort with the current recovery pace and beyond saying that the central bank will focus on the inflation effects of the recent Euro strength, dismissed market speculation about targeting any exchange rate. The ECB also revised up its 2020 growth forecast to show a less severe contraction of 8% (previously -8.7%), but pared its 2021 prospects 5% (previously 5.2%). Elsewhere, BNM also kept its OPR static at 1.75%.

Market watch: Asian markets are due for a likely choppy start to the day, given the return of the US tech rout overnight. Today's economic data calendar comprises of US' August CPI, China's new lending and monetary aggregates data, and Malaysia, India and UK' July industrial output, Thailand's foreign reserves. ECB's Lagarde, Weidmann, Villeroy, Schnabel, Mersch, Holzmann and Lane are all speaking as well.

US: Initial jobless claims was unchanged at 884k, but continuing claims rose to 13.4m. Separately, August headline and core PPI rose more than expected by 0.3% mom (0.2% yoy) and 0.4% mom (0.6% yoy) respectively. The GOP's "skinny" bill is also being blocked by Democrats in the Senate, suggesting that a breakthrough for the stimulus is unlikely in the near-term.

UK: EU leaders have warned the UK of "extremely serious violation" of the Withdrawal Agreement signed last year and demanded UK to scrap its intended changes by end of the month or face legal action.

SG: MAS will expand its SORA FRN program. Meanwhile, SIA will cut 4,300 jobs.

Oil: Brent fell 1.8% to $40.06/bbl yesterday, after weekly data showed the US posted its first increase in crude oil inventories in seven weeks.

Gold: Gold rose to as high as $1966.60/oz but ultimately ended the session almost unchanged from the previous day. We see gold continuing its consolidation at around $1950/oz in the short term.

Malaysia: Bank Negara Malaysia opted to keep its policy rate unchanged at 1.75% yesterday, in line with a slim majority of market consensus. We had expected it to cut rate as an insurance against potential growth uncertainties, but it appears that the BNM is comfortable enough with the recovery momentum thus far to stay on hold for now. Still, it pointed to the potential downside risks to growth on both global and domestic fronts, and would stand ready to ease should its baseline scenario of continued economic pickup comes under threat.

Daily Treasury Outlook

11 September 2020

Major Markets

US: US equities retreated once more, paring back yesterday's gains as the tech rout resumes. The S&P 500 index fell 1.8% and the Nasdaq 100 composite index declined 2.1%. Risk sentiment has turned sour as the market remains wary of further downside. This is likely to weigh on equity markets at the moment.

SG: The STI retreated 0.29% to close at 2492.09 yesterday and continue to consolidate today amid weak overnight cues from Wall Street, whereas SGS bonds are likely to see a flight to quality today.

HK: A big bank scrapped the fees and charges of 26 types of basic banking services to promote inclusive finance. Given the increasing competition amid virtual bank launches, we expect more traditional banks will follow suit to scrap the services fees and charges. Meanwhile, traditional banks may have accelerated the pace of digitalization due to the threat from virtual banks as well as the expected long-term change to people's behavior post Covid-19.

Indonesia: Indonesian assets saw a relatively rough day yesterday as market players digested the impact of the new PSBB or social restriction measures that were announced by the Jakarta authorities the night before. The JCI equity index was down by 5%, the biggest drop in nearly half a year. This comes amid concerns about the spread of the pandemic. Indonesia reported a record-high daily increment of 3861 in new Covid cases yesterday, signalling a challenging period ahead.
