22. What is the minimum application amount for SGS Bonds and T-bills?

The minimum application amount is SGD 1,000, and in multiples of SGD1,000.

23. What is the auction process?

SGS Bond/T-bill are issued via a uniform-price auction. Successful bids will be allotted the securities at a uniform yield, which is the highest accepted yield (or cut-off yield) of successful competitive bids submitted at the auction.

24. What is the difference between competitive and non-competitive bidding?

In an SGS Bond/T-bill auction, participants can choose between submitting a competitive or non-competitive bid.

A competitive bid is one where you specify the price (to be expressed in terms of percentage yield) that you are willing to pay for the SGS Bond/T-bill. You may or may not be allotted the securities after the auction, depending on your submitted yield relative to the yields submitted by all the other competitive bidders. In the context of SGS Bonds and T-bill auctions, a lower yield represents a more competitive bid as the bidder is indicating that he/she will accept a lower interest rate.

A non-competitive bid is one where you do not specify a price (to be expressed in terms of percentage yield) but you are willing to be allotted the SGS Bonds/T-bills at a uniform yield based on the results of the competitive tenders. All non-competitive bids will be satisfied first, and the balance of the amount to be issued is then awarded to those who have submitted competitive bids. In all SGS Bonds/T-bills auctions, 40% of the total issuance amount is reserved for non-competitive bids. If the amount of non-competitive bids exceeds the 40%, the SGS Bonds/T-bills will be allocated to non-competitive bidders on a pro-rated basis.

31. What are CPF-OA investible savings?

These refer to total balances in your CPFIA and CPF-OA that can be used for investment. The total balances would have already taken into account, the first S$20,000 set aside in your OA that cannot be used for investment purposes.

32. When will I be charged transaction charge when I select “CPF-OA Investible Savings” online?

You will only be charged upon successful allotment.

Refer to CPFIA charges: OCBC CPF Investment Account Singapore | Grow Retirement Savings

33. What are CPF-SA investible savings?

These refer to total balances in your CPF-SA that can be used for investment purposes. The total balances would have already taken into account, the first S$40,000 set aside in your SA that cannot be used for investment purposes.

34. After submitting CPF-OA application or CPF-SA application online, why is there a reduction in the respective investible savings?

This is to reflect the investible savings after deducting the investment amount submitted in your application. For example, your CPF-OA Investible savings was reflecting S$50,000. You have then applied for an investment amount of S$20,000. After the submission of your application, the investible savings will now show S$30,000.

35. I submitted my application on internet banking or on OCBC Digital to invest my CPF-OA or CPF-SA with OCBC. When I login to CPF portal, why was the investment amount stated in my application not debited from my CPF-OA or CPF-SA?

For all applications, funds will not be debited nor earmarked upon application. The settlement for your investment will take place between the auction and issue date. Therefore, it is important to maintain sufficient funds in your CPF account during the entire period. The outcome of the application will only be available on the issue date, and this can be viewed via your CPF portal.

36. Why do I receive this online error when I apply for T-bills using my CPF funds “For non-competitive bids, you may submit an investment amount of up to S$1 million. Please lower the amount, then try again.”

The maximum allotment for non-competitive bids is S$2 million per SGS bond issue and S$1 million per T-bills issue. For example, for the same T-bills issue, you applied S$500,000 on Day one, followed by S$800,000 on Day two. You would have exceeded the T-bill limit of S$1 million. You will have to adjust the amount to S$500,000 and reapply.

37. Am I able to bid for negative yields?

No, you are not able to do so at this point.

38. When will SGS bonds and T-bills application results be available?

41. Will the money be refunded to me if the application is unsuccessful, partially successful, or a partial/full return of the 15% deposit (for SGS reopened bond)?

Yes. It will be refunded to you within 2-3 working days from when the auction results are available.

42. What is the difference between a re-opened bond and a new bond issue for Singapore Government Bonds?

MAS may choose to issue a new Singapore Government bond or to re-open an existing bond as a benchmark or non-benchmark issue. Re-opening refers to issuing an additional amount of an existing bond on top of its existing outstanding size in the market. This existing bond would already be available in the secondary market and its market price would account capital gains and accrued interest. Only SGS bonds (not T-bills or Singapore Savings Bonds) are subject to re-opening.

The difference between newly issued and re-opened SGS bonds is that even after the auction, re-opened bonds retain the same maturity date and coupon that they had when they were first issued. If an existing bond is reopened as a benchmark issue, the remaining term-to-maturity of the re-opened bond will be different from that of the original benchmark bond.

For re-opened bonds, we will deduct 115% of your nominal application amount upfront. We will refund any amount not used for the settlement of your application.

43. Can I redeem my SGS Bonds and T-bills online or through ATM?

No, you are not able to do so. For SGS bonds, you may sell it on the Singapore Exchange (SGX) or over the counter at our Bank's branches. For T-bills, you may sell it over the counter at our Bank's branches. Prices may change from day to day according to market conditions, and it is important to note that you may not be able to sell your SGS or T-bills for the same price that you paid for them.

44. What happens if I have insufficient funds in my account to settle the bond purchase?

In a situation where the price of the bonds may be higher than 115% of the bid amounts, the difference will be debited from their bank account. However, if there are insufficient funds for further debiting (after the auction), OCBC Bank has the option to cancel this application and refund the investment amount to the customer and may choose to force-sell the SGS holdings when the bond is issued. The bank will inform the customer of the cancellation of the application, and the reason for the cancellation.

45. When the SGS Bonds and T-bills have matured, where will the maturity proceeds be credited into?

The proceeds will go into the account nominated in your Direct Crediting Service with CDP. This may not necessarily be your OCBC Savings or Current Account.

You may want to login to CDP portal to check on your registered account.

Login to your CDP Internet Service > Individual and Joint Account > View Account Summary > Registered Accounts > Direct Crediting Services

For CPF funds, it will be credited either into CPFIA or CPF-SA. In the event your CPF-SA is closed, the proceeds will be credited into your Retirement Account up to your Full Retirement Sum, with any remaining balances to be paid to your CPF Ordinary Account. For details of the CPF SA closure and how it affects your CPF-SA investments: CPF website > CPF Investment Schemes > FAQs. Alternatively, please contact the CPF Board.

46. How can I buy and sell SGS Bonds and T-bills on the secondary market? What type of account is needed?

You can buy or sell SGS Bonds and T-bills on the secondary market any time before maturity.

To do so, please approach our Branch staff for the prices and they will be able to assist you to process the trade through a hardcopy form.

Please note that prices in the secondary market may change daily according to market conditions. If you sell before maturity, the price may be higher or lower than your original price.
